

KNOWING THE TIMES

7-25-2010 Helping believers know the times (2 Timothy 3:1, 1 Chronicles 12:32)

Religion

---

Christians arrested in Dearborn, MI. On June 18, four believers from the group Acts 17 Apologetics were arrested at the 15th annual Arab International Festival for allegedly disturbing the peace.

“We didn't approach anyone, we waited for them to approach us,’ said Nabeel Qureshi, a former Muslim from Virginia and an Acts 17 leader. ‘They came up to us accusing us but did engage in civilized conversation. We were talking very amicably and enjoying the conversation,’ he said in a videotaped discussion of the arrests made the following day. David Wood, another Acts 17 leader who lives in New York City, said the group was ‘falsely accused’ of being disruptive even though members of the group did not hand out literature, yell, or argue with other festival attendees. In contrast, he told me, Qureshi found himself in a crowd of 20 Muslims ‘who were yelling at him and harassing him.’”

Mindy Belz with World Magazine also reported that there were other Christians there, like Josh McDowell and Haytham Abi Haydar, a Lebanese-born pastor, who did not have any problems at the festival.

John McCulloch of WJR radio interviewed Richard Thompson, President and Chief Counsel of the Thomas Moore Law Center of Ann Arbor. He is representing the four defendants who were arraigned on July 12. The interactions with the crowd and police were videotaped, but the police took the cameras, refused to view their contents, and then made arrests. Thompson agreed with McCulloch's suggestion that Sharia law seems to be trumping U.S. law in the constitution. Dearborn's position from the mayor, city, and police department is that they have a right to arrest people, even those who are engaged in peaceful dialog if they determine there is a disturbance of the peace.

See Mindy Belz, writing in July 2010 at <http://www.worldmag.com/articles/16912>

The July 12 radio interview is available at <http://www.wjr.com/Article.asp?id=1872399&spid=6552>

Atheists Unbaptizing. “Leading atheist Edwin Kagin blasted his fellow non-believers with the hair dryer to symbolically dry up the holy water sprinkled on their heads in days past. The styling tool was emblazoned with a label reading ‘Reason and Truth.’

“Kagin believes parents are wrong to baptize their children before they are able to make their own choices, even slamming some religious education as ‘child abuse.’ He said the blast of hot air was a way for adults to undo what their parents had done.”

http://www.foxnews.com/us/2010/07/17/ath-eists-reportedly-using-hair-dryers-baptize/?test=latestnews.

Prayer at the Supreme Court. “A group of Christian students was allegedly ordered to stop praying outside the U.S. Supreme Court building on May 5 because a court police officer told them it was against the law.

“The students were part of a junior high school American History class at Wickenburg Christian Academy in Arizona. After taking pictures on the steps of the Supreme Court building, their teacher gathered them to a side location where they formed a circle and began to pray.”

According to US Code Title 40, Public Buildings, Property, and Works (January 2003), “It is unlawful to parade, stand, or move in processions or assemblages in the Supreme Court Building or grounds, or to display in the Building and grounds a flag, banner, or device designed or adapted to bring into public notice a party, organization, or movement.” This includes the plaza and steps of the court but not the perimeter sidewalks.

Allegedly, the police officer told the group of 15 students and 7 adults that he was not going to tell them to stop praying, but that he was going to tell them to stop praying at that particular location.

<http://radio.foxnews.com/2010/07/15/scotus-cops-order-kids-to-stop-praying/#axzz0u07QilA4>

Vatican extends statute of limitations.

On July 15, the Vatican extended the statute of limitations for cases involving the abuse of minors or the mentally disabled. The limit is now 20 years. This has to do with the church’s internal legal system for dealing with abuse. Many priests have been accused and convicted of abuse under state and federal laws which is a separate issue.

Editorial comment: The Catholic church should realize that they are endangering their youth by placing them under the authority of men who are required to not marry. Naturally, this subset of men will have a higher incidence of these sorts of illicit activities because others will select themselves out of the priesthood because of a natural desire to marry.

Society

---

New abortion strategy. Al Mohler writes, “The tragedy of abortion remains one of this nation’s greatest reasons for shame, and the fact that over a million abortions are performed each year is nothing less than horrifying. In light of this tragedy, it is at least encouraging to know that abortion, though an industry of death, is not a growth industry. At least for now.

“All that may change if a new movement meets with success. As reported by Emily Bazelon, a new movement seeks to move abortions from abortion clinics to your local hospital, medical school, and physician’s office. In other words, those behind this new movement intend to mainstream abortion as medical practice, and to hide it behind a facade of medical respectability.

“Bazon’s report, ‘The New Abortion Providers,’ appears as the cover story in the July 18, 2010 edition of The New York Times Magazine. As she reports, this new movement is training family physicians and other doctors to perform abortion as a standard part of their medical practice. As the cover of the magazine states, ‘They are doctors seeing patients in their offices. They have quietly learned how to terminate pregnancies.’”

Mohler continues, “The center of the movement is the University of California at San Francisco. There, Professor Jody Steinauer told the magazine, ‘The ’90s were about getting abortion back into residency training and medical schools... Now it’s about getting abortion into our practices.’

“Steinauer was a leader in founding Medical Students for Choice, a group that pushes for more visibility and for residency programs in abortion procedures and reproductive health. Largely due to the MSFC and the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education, fully half of the 200 OB-GYN programs in the country ‘integrate abortion into their residents’ regular rotations.’”

<http://www.albertmohler.com/2010/07/19/coming-to-a-doctors-office-near-you-the-new-abortion-strategy/>

---

KNOWING THE TIMES is a publication of
Fellowship Bible Church
2775 Bedford Rd.

Ann Arbor, MI 48104

www.fbcaa.org

Editor: Matt Postiff, Ph.D., Th.M.

Assistant Editor: Andy Bennett, M.Div.

KNOWING THE TIMES

7-4-2010 Helping believers know the times (2 Timothy 3:1, 1 Chronicles 12:32)

Religion

---

Christians arrested in Dearborn, MI. On June 18, four believers from the group Acts 17 Apologetics were arrested at the 15th annual Arab International Festival for allegedly disturbing the peace.

“We didn't approach anyone, we waited for them to approach us,’ said Nabeel Qureshi, a former Muslim from Virginia and an Acts 17 leader. ‘They came up to us accusing us but did engage in civilized conversation. We were talking very amicably and enjoying the conversation,’ he said in a videotaped discussion of the arrests made the following day. David Wood, another Acts 17 leader who lives in New York City, said the group was ‘falsely accused’ of being disruptive even though members of the group did not hand out literature, yell, or argue with other festival attendees. In contrast, he told me, Qureshi found himself in a crowd of 20 Muslims ‘who were yelling at him and harassing him.’”

Mindy Belz with World Magazine also reported that there were other Christians there, like Josh McDowell and Haytham Abi Haydar, a Lebanese-born pastor, who did not have any problems at the festival.

John McCulloch of WJR radio interviewed Richard Thompson, President and Chief Counsel of the Thomas Moore Law Center of Ann Arbor. He is representing the four defendants who were arraigned on July 12. The interactions with the crowd and police were videotaped, but the police took the cameras, refused to view their contents, and then made arrests. Thompson agreed with McCulloch's suggestion that Sharia law seems to be trumping U.S. law in the constitution. Dearborn's position from the mayor, city, and police department is that they have a right to arrest people, even those who are engaged in peaceful dialog if they determine there is a disturbance of the peace.

See Mindy Belz, writing in July 2010 at <http://www.worldmag.com/articles/16912>

The July 12 radio interview is available at <http://www.wjr.com/Article.asp?id=1872399&spid=6552>

Atheists Unbaptizing. “Leading atheist Edwin Kagin blasted his fellow non-believers with the hair dryer to symbolically dry up the holy water sprinkled on their heads in days past. The styling tool was emblazoned with a label reading ‘Reason and Truth.’

“Kagin believes parents are wrong to baptize their children before they are able to make their own choices, even slamming some religious education as ‘child abuse.’ He said the blast of hot air was a way for adults to undo what their parents had done.”

http://www.foxnews.com/us/2010/07/17/ath-eists-reportedly-using-hair-dryers-baptize/?test=latestnews.

Prayer at the Supreme Court. “A group of Christian students was allegedly ordered to stop praying outside the U.S. Supreme Court building on May 5 because a court police officer told them it was against the law.

“The students were part of a junior high school American History class at Wickenburg Christian Academy in Arizona. After taking pictures on the steps of the Supreme Court building, their teacher gathered them to a side location where they formed a circle and began to pray.”

According to US Code Title 40, Public Buildings, Property, and Works (January 2003), “It is unlawful to parade, stand, or move in processions or assemblages in the Supreme Court Building or grounds, or to display in the Building and grounds a flag, banner, or device designed or adapted to bring into public notice a party, organization, or movement.” This includes the plaza and steps of the court but not the perimeter sidewalks.

Allegedly, the police officer told the group of 15 students and 7 adults that he was not going to tell them to stop praying, but that he was going to tell them to stop praying at that particular location.

<http://radio.foxnews.com/2010/07/15/scotus-cops-order-kids-to-stop-praying/#axzz0u07QilA4>

Vatican extends statute of limitations.

On July 15, the Vatican extended the statute of limitations for cases involving the abuse of minors or the mentally disabled. The limit is now 20 years. This has to do with the church’s internal legal system for dealing with abuse. Many priests have been accused and convicted of abuse under state and federal laws which is a separate issue.

Editorial comment: The Catholic church should realize that they are endangering their youth by placing them under the authority of men who are required to not marry. Naturally, this subset of men will have a higher incidence of these sorts of illicit activities because others will select themselves out of the priesthood because of a natural desire to marry.

Society

---

New abortion strategy. Al Mohler writes, “The tragedy of abortion remains one of this nation’s greatest reasons for shame, and the fact that over a million abortions are performed each year is nothing less than horrifying. In light of this tragedy, it is at least encouraging to know that abortion, though an industry of death, is not a growth industry. At least for now.

“All that may change if a new movement meets with success. As reported by Emily Bazelon, a new movement seeks to move abortions from abortion clinics to your local hospital, medical school, and physician’s office. In other words, those behind this new movement intend to mainstream abortion as medical practice, and to hide it behind a facade of medical respectability.

“Bazon’s report, ‘The New Abortion Providers,’ appears as the cover story in the July 18, 2010 edition of The New York Times Magazine. As she reports, this new movement is training family physicians and other doctors to perform abortion as a standard part of their medical practice. As the cover of the magazine states, ‘They are doctors seeing patients in their offices. They have quietly learned how to terminate pregnancies.’”

Mohler continues, “The center of the movement is the University of California at San Francisco. There, Professor Jody Steinauer told the magazine, ‘The ’90s were about getting abortion back into residency training and medical schools... Now it’s about getting abortion into our practices.’

“Steinauer was a leader in founding Medical Students for Choice, a group that pushes for more visibility and for residency programs in abortion procedures and reproductive health. Largely due to the MSFC and the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education, fully half of the 200 OB-GYN programs in the country ‘integrate abortion into their residents’ regular rotations.’”

<http://www.albertmohler.com/2010/07/19/coming-to-a-doctors-office-near-you-the-new-abortion-strategy/>

---

KNOWING THE TIMES is a publication of
Fellowship Bible Church
2775 Bedford Rd.

Ann Arbor, MI 48104

www.fbcaa.org

Editor: Matt Postiff, Ph.D., Th.M.

Assistant Editor: Andy Bennett, M.Div.